BuskerFest is Back!

The city's favourite summer festival makes its return to Woodbine Park on Labour Day weekend

TORONTO, June 7, 2022 — After a two-year hiatus, the 21st Annual Toronto International BuskerFest makes its return on Labour Day weekend this year. There's something spectacular around every corner from circus artistry, daredevils, feats of the impossible, and so much more at Ontario's largest gathering of performing buskers from around the world.

The festival is renowned for its one-of-a-kind entertainment that will have you questioning your very eyes. Adrenaline junkies, music-lovers, comedy fans, acrobatic enthusiasts, foodie fanatics – all are welcome to explore the captivating curiosities that can be found at the Toronto International BuskerFest. Four days of non-stop, action-packed fun for all ages! And it's all for a great cause.

What many spectators don't realize is that this world class festival is organized by and supports a local charitable organization, Epilepsy Toronto.

"We wanted to create a unique and memorable experience that brought epilepsy out of the shadows and into the public eye; an entertainment extravaganza that supports a greater purpose in aid of people with epilepsy and their families," says Geoff Bobb, Executive Director of Epilepsy Toronto.

So, mark your calendars! We can't wait to see you all there!

Epilepsy Toronto is a place where Torontonians living with epilepsy can learn more about their condition, get the help they need and be a part of a family of caring and supportive people. Epilepsy Toronto prioritizes individual needs, the importance of living as independently as possible and the benefits of community engagement. Their programs address all aspects of epilepsy from the first diagnosis of a child, to the struggles that young people face, to adult needs such as employment and relationships.
